$6,900 FOR COROT AT ART SALE THAT FETCHES $115,397

Another Painting Catalogued as Corot
Sold by Mr. Kirby as "Attributed."

Much interest was shown in the final sale of the collection of old and modern paintings under the auspices of the American Art Galleries in the ballroom of the Plaza Hotel last night.

The bidding was more spirited than at the first sale and as a result better prices prevailed for the eighty-four pictures sold.

The leading price of the night was $6,900, which was paid by the Ralston Galleries for Corot's "Les Jeux du Berger." The second best price was $4,900 for Van Marcke's "The White Cow and the Herd."

John Levy bought a second picture by Van Marcke entitled "Landscape and Cattle" for $4,200. The Kraushaar Galleries gave $4,100 for Adolphe Monticelli's "Woodland Landscape." Messrs. Scott & Fowles paid $3,500 for George Innes' "Golden Sunset." M. Knoedler purchased Josef Israels' "The New Born" for $3,200. Messrs. Clapp & Graham paid $3,750 for Bouguereau's "Young Mother and Child." A. Reiman purchased Daubigny's "Landscape" for $3,000. The Kraushaar Galleries bought Vibert's "Le Mepris du Trone" for $2,600. Clapp & Graham paid $2,300 for Ridgway Knight's "Harvesting the Potatoes," and the Holland Galleries $1,850 for Henner's "Tete de Femme."

In putting up No. 107, which was Corot's "Au Bord du Lac," which was knocked down to Dr. E. Frank for $700, Thomas E. Kirby said that he wished all those present to correct their catalogues and make this picture appear as "attributed to Corot." Mr. Kirby added that when the catalogue was made he had no doubt as to the authenticity of this painting which was one of the most admired of all in the exhibition, but in spite of the seemingly perfect pedigree of the canvas he had decided to take no risks in the matter on account of some information that had reached him. He said that he had been always so careful with Corots that only one out of 250 sold by the American Art Galleries had been challenged.

The total for the night was $66,557 and the grand total for the two nights is $115,397.

OLD MASTERS SEEN WITH MODERN ART

Murillo, Reynolds, Van Dyck,

EXHIBITION AT PLAZA

Rare Arms and Armor Make Up Notable Collection for Sale.

A collection of paintings, both classic and modern, together with an important collection of arms and armor, fill the galleries of the American Art Association and will remain on public view a few days until the sales. The paintings will be sold in the Hotel Plaza on two evenings, February 10 and 11, and the dispersal of the armor will take place February 7 and 8 at the galleries.

The paintings are ranged sharply in two divisions, and in the hanging the classification has been followed, so that in the entrance galleries one finds the old masters, and in the inner rooms, works by modern favorites. It has been some time since so many old masters have come upon the market, and on the list appear some very great names.

Without wasting any time upon the theory question as to which of these great names are greatest, the connoisseur will probably find his attention first arrested by the Murillo, which, in fact, has been given the place of honor. It is a Murillo that is different from the usual, a Murillo that has much of the troubling race quality of a nation that has had dark as well as bright pages in its history.

Although it is a portrayal of a saint, and a royal saint at that, there is something fateful and sinister in the visage that appears in the picture within the picture, and the feeling is scarcely allayed even by the groups of charming cupids who bear the portrait aloft.

Murillo painted a number of pictures of Fernando Third, who was beatified four centuries after he had brought about the union of the kingdoms of Castile and Leon, and it is probable the present work was intended as a decoration for some chapter house or sacristy. The saint is shown crowned, wearing robes and ermine, and bearing aloft the sword which he used so effectively against the Moors. The cupids of the picture are wholly delightful, not a bit mannered, and full of childish importance and unconscious grace.

There are three portraits by Van Dyck, one of which is a full length of Lady De La Warr, with flowing satins, much lace and jewels. As often happens in a Van Dyck portrait, there is a dog among the accessories, and this one Queen Charlotte in the portrait by Sir William Beechey also has a little dog, a spaniel, which she carries in her arms. Another of Beechey's portraits is of an English nobleman in his peer's robes, very resplendent. "Anthony Chamier," in the portrait by Sir Joshua Reynolds, has all the suave composure that Sir Joshua, who loved calmness, could put into it. The coat and breeches are of a most attractive snuff color.

"The Duchess of Portsmouth," by Sir Peter Lely, has the heavy voluptuousness characteristic not only of Lely but also of the court of Charles II., where both flourished. Not quite so alluring, physically, perhaps, is the lady in the portrait by Jan van Ravesteyn, but she has more artistic elegances. The ruff is surely the finest ever seen, and the lace cuffs, the embroidered vest, and even the hands, have a sure value in the decorative scheme.

Mierevelt's man is an excuse for much study of textiles, Raeburn's has character study, and the pair of portraits labelled "Dutch School" are eminently decorative. The "Family of the Artist," by Jan Steen, is an interesting composition, and the "Musical Party," by Dirk Hals, is highly amusing.

Several Modern Works Shown.

Among the modern works is a sunset by George Inness, which is rich and mellow; the "Shepherds at Play," by Corot, which is pearly and atmospheric; a Daubigny River scene and two vigorous, direct landscapes by Harpignies. A watercolor by William Mares is thoroughly charming, and Boudens's "Dunkerque" and Theophile de Bock's "Amsterdam" are excellently painted. Lovers of Monticelli will rejoice to find no less than seven of his works. They are molten in color, suggestive, as one admirer was overheard saying yesterday, of the richness of old glass. Other notable canvases are by W. M. Chase, Homer Martin and Alexander Wyant.

A REYNOLDS LEADS OLD MASTERS' SALE

Sir Joshua's "Portrait of Anthony Chamier" Brings
$7,000 at the Plaza.

31 PICTURES FOR $48,840

Van Gelder's "David and Bathsheba" Fetches $4,000, and Murillo's "San Fernando" $3,500.

Eighty-one pictures of English, Dutch, and other old masters, sold by executors and trustees of different estates and for a number of private owners, at the Plaza last evening, under the auspices of the American Art Association, brought $48,840. Sir Joshua Reynolds's "Portrait of Anthony Chamier" brought the highest price, going to Lewis & Simmons for $7,000. To the same buyers went Aert Van Gelder's "David and Bathsheba," which brought the second highest price of the sale, $4,000. "San Fernando," by Murillo, which brought the third highest price of the sale, $3,500, went to A. Reiman.

A large and attractive portrait, "Miss Broughton Holding a Mask," by Francis Cotes, sold for a private collector, went to Mrs. George Leary for $1,000, the gross returns to go to the Red Cross. This was purchased by the owner as a gift for her son, who was not able to use it in his house. The seller offered the net returns to the Red Cross and the American Art Association made the contribution of the selling cost.

ART AND BOOK SALES

Combination Picture Sale

Some 80 oils out of a total of 175, the first part of a collection assembled by the American Art Association from several private owners, executors of estates and which included presumably some works from dealers' stocks, were sold by Mr Thomas E. Kirby at the first session of a sale on Mon. eve. last, Feb. 10, in the Plaza ballroom, for a total of $48,840. There was a fair attendance but the bidding was not spirited, save in the case of the good example of Sir Joshua Reynolds' "Portrait of Anthony Chaumier," which, while not a great, was a pleasing canvas in the master's quieter manner and which, after lively competition, was secured by Lewis and Simmons for $7,000. The curious Murillo, "Sam Fernando," brought only $3,500, and the large standing full-length "Portrait of Lady Delawarr," attributed to Van Dyck, only $1,300 from Knoedler & Co., the only purchase made by that firm. The large Verboeckhoven, "Landscape and Cattle," the finest example that ever came on the auction market in this city, went to Clapp and Graham for only $575 as the canvas was too large to be salable. That a work attributed to Raeburn brought only $300, and others given to great names sold in the hundreds, tells the story of the sale which was largely made up of attributed pictures, frankly so labelled in the catalog.

(Second Session)

At the second and concluding session of the sale Tuesday evening last, again in the Plaza ballroom, the pictures dispersed were of the modern foreign and a few of the modern American school, and brought a total of $66,557.50 which, added to the total of Monday night's sale of $48,840, less $230 for three pictures resold Tues. eve., made a grand total of $115,167.50 for the sale.

The attendance was smaller than on Monday evening, and the bidding was not spirited. Good prices for the material offered were, however, obtained, on the whole. The varying prices of the Monticelli was due to their varying quality. The highest price was $6,900, paid by the Ralston

Galleries, for the fine Corot, "Shepherd and Shepherdess at Play," from the William H. Stewart and Isidor Wormser collections. An unusual and typical example of Van Marcke sold to Mr. John Levy for $4,200.

The three pictures resold from the first night's sale, Nos. 28, 39 and 60, of the catalog, were bought, respectively, the first two by Mr. W. A. Burnett, and the third by Mr. C. A. Giugliemetti, and brought the first night's total down $230.

The pictures sold with artists' names, titles, buyers' names and prices follow:

CONDITIONS OF SALE

1. Any bid which is merely a nominal or fractional advance may be rejected by the auctioneer, if, in his judgment, such bid would be likely to affect the sale injuriously.

2. The highest bidder shall be the buyer, and if any dispute arise between two or more bidders, the auctioneer shall either decide the same or put up for re-sale the lot so in dispute.

3. Payment shall be made of all or such part of the purchase money as may be required, and the names and addresses of the purchasers shall be given immediately on the sale of every lot, in default of which the lot so purchased shall be immediately put up again and re-sold.

Payment of that part of the purchase money not made at the time of sale shall be made within ten days thereafter, in default of which the undersigned may either continue to hold the lots at the risk of the purchaser and take such action as may be necessary for the enforcement of the sale, or may at public or private sale, and without other than this notice, re-sell the lots for the benefit of such purchaser, and the deficiency (if any) arising from such re-sale shall be a charge against such purchaser.

4. Delivery of any purchase will be made only upon payment of the total amount due for all purchases at the sale.

Deliveries will be made on sales days between the hours of 9 A. M. and 1 P. M., and on other days—except holidays—between the hours of 9 A. M. and 5 P. M.

Delivery of any purchase will be made only at the American Art Galleries, or other place of sale, as the case may be, and only on presenting the bill of purchase.

Delivery may be made, at the discretion of the Association, of any purchase during the session of the sale at which it was sold.

5. Shipping, boxing or wrapping of purchases is a business in which the Association is in no wise engaged, and will not be performed by the Association for purchasers. The Association will, however, afford to purchasers every facility for employing at current and reasonable rates carriers and packers; doing so, however, without any assumption of responsibility on its part for the acts and charges of the parties engaged for such service.

6. Storage of any purchase shall be at the sole risk of the purchaser. Title passes upon the fall of the auctioneer's hammer, and thereafter, while the Association will exercise due caution in caring for and delivering such purchase, it will not hold itself responsible if such purchase be lost, stolen, damaged or destroyed.

Storage charges will be made upon all purchases not removed within ten days from the date of the sale thereof.

7. Guarantee is not made either by the owner or the Association of the correctness of the description, genuineness or authenticity of any lot, and no sale will be set aside on account of any incorrectness, error of cataloguing, or any imperfection not noted. Every lot is on public exhibition one or more days prior to its sale, after which it is sold "as is" and without recourse.

The Association exercises great care to catalogue every lot correctly, and will give consideration to the opinion of any trustworthy expert to the effect that any lot has been incorrectly catalogued, and, in its judgment, may either sell the lot as catalogued or make mention of the opinion of such expert, who thereby would become responsible for such damage as might result were his opinion without proper foundation.

1—PORTRAIT OF A MAN

30
H. W. Neustadt

Panel: Height, $8\frac{1}{4}$ inches; width, $6\frac{3}{4}$ inches

HALF length to the front. In black doublet, and flat white collar. In his gloved left hand, which is raised, he holds his other glove. Neutral background.

Formerly in the Château de Heeswijk.

By order of an Executor.

2—PORTRAIT OF A BOY, LAUGHING

Panel: Height, 13 inches; width, 13 inches

SMALL, bust-length portrait of a little boy, with mouth open and toothless; his body slightly to the left, the face in full front. Long hair, rosy cheeks. In a brown coat.

Reminiscent of several such pictures painted by Frans Hals early in his career. Perhaps nearest, in spite of the blue dress, to that of a boy, with a mischievous smile, "listed" by Hofstede de Groot (No. 20), and reproduced in Bode, Plate 14.

By order of an Executor.

3—THE SMOKER

Height, 12 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches; width, 9 $\frac{3}{4}$ inches

IN a tavern or cottage cellar a smooth-faced man of rugged features, in baggy small-clothes and steeple hat, is seated before an upturned barrel which serves as a table. Elbow on knee, he puffs meditatively upon a long-stemmed clay pipe, and a large wine pitcher stands on the floor beside him. A companion has left the table.

4—SEA VIEW

Canvas: Height, 12 inches; width, 18 inches

A BUSY scene, with old Dutch galleons flying the national tri-color flag. Small sailing vessels in the right foreground.

Formerly in the H. Casimir-Périer Collection. Later in the Wyatt Collection at Oxford.

Mentioned in Smith's "Catalogue Raisonné," Vol. VI, p. 364, No. 154.

By order of an Executor.

FRANCIS WHEATLEY, R.A.

ENGLISH: 1747—1801

5—THE FISHERMAN'S DEPARTURE

Canvas: Height, 18 inches; length, 22¼ inches

THE fisherman is bidding farewell on the shore, on the right, to his wife and three children who are accompanied by the dog. In the right background is their cottage. On the left is a sailing vessel.

W. Roberts, "F. Wheatley, R.A.," 1910, p. 46, lists an undated engraving of the "Fisherman Going Out" by J. Barney. It is described as "a group of six figures, in front of a rustic cottage overhung with trees and by the side of the river or sea, a boat anchored, a boy hoisting a sail. 17½ inches x 21½ inches."

6—LANDSCAPE

175-

Wood: Height, 12 inches; length, 17½ inches

ON high ground is a plough near a fallen tree; farther back is a shepherd with two cows. On the right, on rising ground, is a cottage near trees. Across the valley is seen a distant church tower. Windy weather. Rain-swept sky.

Apparently painted in imitation of the manner of Constable, but not (as once claimed) in the neighborhood of Salisbury Plain. The church faintly recalls that of Dedham, and the foreground that of Hampstead Heath.

7—PORTRAIT OF A MAN

R. W. Seaman,

Canvas: Height, 15 inches; length, 18½ inches

Agst.

BUST; three quarters to the right; small mustache; long hair. In a brown doublet with yellow turned-back collar. Neutral background.

Formerly in the collection of Henry Doetsch, and sold in London, June 24, 1895, No. 255, as by Ribera, when the catalogue stated that "this picture has also been ascribed to Velazquez, with whose style it has much in common." The rather greater knowledge that we now possess of Spanish painting enables us to dismiss the ascription to Velazquez without, however, making any definite attribution.

JOHN SELL COTMAN

ENGLISH: 1782—1842

Mrs. Henry A. Bowen

75- 8—AT THE PIER

Canvas: Height, 24 inches; width, 18 inches

FRESH-CAUGHT fish are on the seashore near two boys who are seated in the left foreground near a ship's windlass. More to the right are other figures, a man on a white horse, a cart, and farther back a number of fishing vessels which are beached and stretch out in a row toward the headland in the center distance. Cloudy sky.

11—THE FAMILY OF THE ARTIST

Panel: Height, 25½ inches; width, 19 inches

14—PORTRAIT OF JEROME (WESTON), SECOND EARL OF PORTLAND

475-

W. W. Seaman,
Agt.

Canvas: Height, 25 inches; width, 22¾ inches

Bust length, turned slightly to the right, looking through a sculptured oval. A middle-aged man, with a short gray beard and mustache. Wearing a flat ruff, and the blue ribbon of the Order of the Garter.

Jerome (1605-1663), styled Lord Weston from 1633 until he succeeded as 2nd Earl of Portland in 1635, was "a man of abilities, various learning and genteel accomplishments; a good statesman, and well-skilled in naval affairs."

Thane: "Historical Portraits," II, 21, reproduces a medalion-shaped engraving "from an original by Van Dyck."

Smith, "Catalogue Raisonné," Vol. III, p. 165, No. 576, describes such a portrait as here identified, as "engraved by W. Hollar, 1645," and with "the countenance denoting the Earl to have been fifty years of age." In point of fact, he would not then be as old.

The signature in the right bottom corner and the style of painting indicate the English period of Van Dyck.

16—A PEASANT

Wood: Height, 20 inches; length, 26 inches

A MAN in tattered attire seated at the roadside, in front of a cottage, with the branches of a tree spreading above him. The stocking of his left leg is down. He is examining the top of his undershirt, which he holds with the fingers of both hands. In the right foreground is his basket, through the handle of which is his staff, on the top of which he has placed his large black hat. At the end of the road, beyond other cottages in the left background, is a church with a tall steeple.

18—THE LEGEND OF ST. CHRISTOPHER

Panel: Height, 19¾ inches; width, 13¼ inches

UNDER the branch-thatched penthouse reclines the giant Offero, with his palm-tree staff on the ground by his side. From the right, across the ford, approaches the Infant Christ, who calls to Offero (afterwards to become St. Christopher) to carry Him across. From among the many incidents in the background we discern the guardian of the ford, who holds his lantern for the enlightenment of travelers; a procession of men on horseback, and others, seen near houses outside the walls of a medieval city. Beyond is a wide-spreading landscape, with a windmill and distant hills. Blue sky, with birds.

The well-known appearance of Marie Thérèse Louise de Savoie Carignan (1749-1792), who married the Prince de Lamballe, who was "dainty, small, fascinating and always of the same opinion as other people," seems hardly to fit the lady here represented. Yet this portrait has passed traditionally as that of the Princesse de Lamballe, the friend of Marie Antoinette.

Height, $29\frac{1}{2}$ inches; width, 23 inches

AGAINST a neutral background of rich green hue is painted the portrait of a man, appearing at less than half length, in black apparel. He is bearded and is portrayed with figure nearly full front and face three quarters front, turned slightly to his left, and his gaze is directed at the spectator. He wears a dark cap from which feathery plumes droop, and his black apparel is relieved by the touches of red and white presented by the inner fluted collar of his coat.

This picture was purchased by the owner as by Paris Bordone, but since it has been in his possession and while in course of being cleaned it was seen by Dr. Oswald Sirén, the expert, who declared that in his opinion the painting was the work of Giulio Campi.

A fan in her right hand; her left rests on the table on the right on which is the crown. A curtain in the left background.

Catharine of Braganza (1638-1705) was the Queen of Charles II. The attribution to William Dobson (1610-1646) is impossible or at least would be something of a feat in successful achievement. But the present ascription to Lely is purely tentative. Lely, Hysmans, Wissing and others painted Catharine.

65—THE DUCHESS OF PORTSMOUTH

as. Geo. Leary

Canvas: Height, 50 inches; width, 40 inches

360-

THREE-QUARTER length of the famous beauty, the Duchess of Portsmouth. She is seated to front, wears a red robe garnished with pearls at the corsage; dark blue cloak across shoulders and on lap; her right hand is raised, holding small spray of flowers; to left, fountain basin carved with cupids; and in the center of the picture, a Corinthian column.

The Duchess of Portsmouth was Louise Renée de Penancoët de Kérouaille (1647-1734). She was born in Brittany; she attended Henrietta, Duchess of Orleans, on a visit to her brother, Charles II, at Dover in 1670, and was created Duchess of Portsmouth in 1673. Her son by Charles II was created Duke of Richmond.

68—PORTRAIT OF ANTHONY CHAMIER

Canvas: Height, 50 inches; width, 40 inches

NEARLY full length, turned three quarters to the left. Seated, and dressed in dark red knee-breeches, white stockings, lace cravat and cuffs. Clean-shaven and wearing a wig. He holds a book in his right hand, which leans against a table. His left is half hidden in his waistcoat.

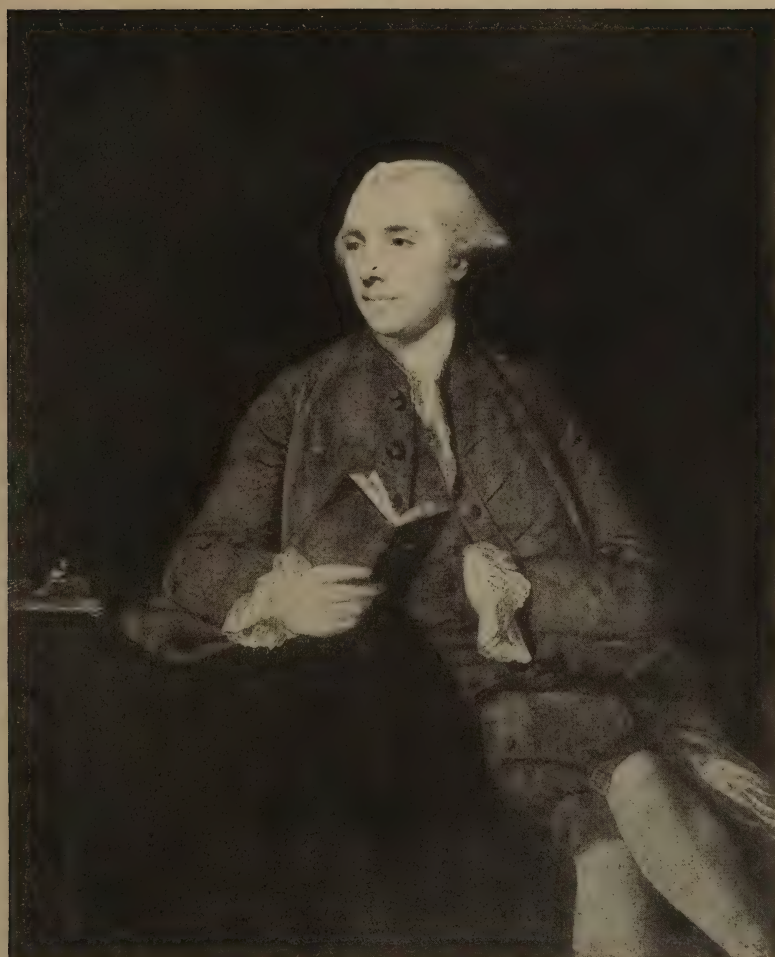

This portrait of Anthony Chamier, M.P. for Tamworth, and F.R.S., was painted by Reynolds in 1767. It was engraved by W. Ward, exhibited at the Grosvenor Gallery, 1883-84, No. 44, and included in the sale of the James Price Collection at Christie's, June 15, 1895, No. 89. — 450. Guineas — Agnew

Anthony Chamier, Under-Secretary of State in 1766, and Member of Parliament, was one of the original members of the Literary Club. He was for many years a friend of Sir Joshua Reynolds. He died in 1780.

69—PORTRAIT OF QUEEN CHARLOTTE

Canvas: Height, 56 inches; width, 47 inches

925-
THREE-QUARTER length, three quarters to the right. In a white dress, yellow mantle and black lace scarf. Pearl necklace and enamel bracelet. Her right hand superposed on her left, in which she holds a dog. Landscape background.

Apparently widened at some time.

"According to the writer of the obituary notice of Beechey in the Gentleman's Magazine (April, 1839, p. 433) 'in the year 1793 Beechey painted a whole-length portrait of Queen Charlotte, who honoured him by the appointment of Her Majesty's Portrait Painter.' This portrait was not exhibited until 1797, and 'notwithstanding its disfigurement by the frightful costume of the time . . . is a remarkably fine work of art.' This portrait does not appear to be in the Royal Collection . . . It would seem to have lain on Beechey's hands, for at his sale at Christie's rooms on June 11, 1836, when it was described as 'the original engraved picture,' it was bought in at 60 guineas and at the Beechey sale at Rainy's, on July 19, 1839, the same portrait was 'passed.' The background of the portrait was formed by a view of the gardens at Frogmore. This portrait of the Queen is probably a version of the picture in question . . . It must have been a good portrait, for it met with the approval of Anthony Pasquin."—W. Roberts: "Sir William Beechey," 1907.

70—PORTRAIT OF A MAN

Mrs. Geo Leary

Canvas: Height, 50 inches; width, 40 inches

300-
NEARLY full length; three quarters to the right; middle-aged. Seated in a red upholstered chair. Wearing black coat and trousers, white cravat, and a fob with blue ribbon. In his right hand he holds a letter, the seal of which is broken. His left arm rests against the table on the right, which is covered with a green cloth and has books and papers on it. A red curtain in the background. A peep of landscape dimly seen through the window on the right.

In general pose and setting, this portrait recalls that of Prof. John Playfair, by Raeburn, in the collection of the Marquess of Lansdowne.

Property of a Private Collector.

SIR A. VAN DYCK

FLEMISH: 1599—1641

71—PORTRAIT OF LUCY,
COUNTESS OF CARLISLE

Canvas: Height, 51½ inches; width, 40 inches

ON the back is the description taken from Smith's "Catalogue Raisonné," Vol. iii, No. 654, where it is said that the lady is "about 30, and has auburn hair adorned with flowers. In a silk robe of orange colour, hanging sleeves lined with white silk; the left hand raising the skirt. The right hand under the cool stream of a fountain . . . This has been stated to be the lost Egremont picture." (This quotation has, however, not been verified.)

Lucy, second daughter of Henry, ninth Earl of Northumberland, married, Nov. 6, 1617, James, afterward Viscount Doncaster and Earl of Carlisle. Turning her attention to politics, she despised the society of her own sex, studied systems of government and intrigued in matters of state. Sir Philip Warwick, in his "Memoirs," accuses her, the friend and alleged confidant of Strafford, of having given notice to Pym of the King's coming to the House of Commons to demand the five members, in order that they might have time to absent themselves. She was "solemnized in the poems of the most exquisite wits of the time." She died November, 1660, having survived her husband twenty-four years.

This composition recalls that reproduced in Lodge's "Portraits," VII, 12, as engraved by H. T. Ryall from the picture in the collection of the Earl of Egremont at Petworth.

MURILLO

SPANISH: 1618—1682

74—SAN FERNANDO

Canvas: Height, 67 inches; width, 45 inches

35700-
A. Reimann THE King-Saint, wearing his robes of office, with the sword in his right hand and the orb in his left, is seen within a framed medallion which is held up by four putti; one of them bears the scroll inscribed: "Vera Divi Ferdinandi III Effigies, Maurorum Exterminatio Restitutor Hispan. Orbis." Three other putti, above the medallion, remove the red curtain to reveal the portrait.

Fernando III or Ferdinand III (1200-1252), King of Castile and Leon, brought about the final union of those kingdoms in 1230. He was beatified four centuries later. As resisting the power of the Moors Fernando III, El Santo, is less known to-day than Ferdinand V of Aragon (1452-1516), El Catolico, who married Isabella of Castile and, with all the fervor of a crusade, undertook the conquest of Granada, the last Moorish Kingdom in Spain.

Murillo painted, for the eight circles of the dome of the Chapter House at Seville, portraits of the canonized Archbishops of the diocese, Pio, Laureano, Leandro and Isidoro; the Royal Saints, Hermangildo and Fernando; and the Virgin Saints, Justa and Rufina.

Pictures of San Fernando by Murillo are (i) in the Chapter Room in the Cathedral at Seville, in (ii) the Counting Room there, in (iii) the Biblioteca Columbiana, Seville, and (iv) in the Museo del Prado. They are, however, all different in composition and scale from the present imposing canvas. Curtis ("Murillo," No. 283) describes another picture of San Fernando with five cherubs and a scroll inscribed "MAGNA FERDINANDI . . ."

This would seem to be the picture (Curtis, No. 284) formerly in the possession of the Heirs of the Infant Don Sebastian, at Pau, No. 580. Curtis states that it was inscribed "Vera Divi Ferdinandi II" and that "beneath are four cherubs holding aside the drapery." He probably inaccurately transcribed the numeral of the king and curtailed the inscription on our picture in which, moreover, the cherubs below hold up the medallion of the king while those above hold aside the drapery. This is probably the picture mentioned by O'Shea: "Handbook," §301, thus: "it is the model from which the effigy was carved by Señor Piquer, which is seen in the Armeria at Madrid, No. 1785, and is borne in procession to the palace chapel on the anniversary of the Capture of Seville, May 29."

Mentioned by Calvert: "Murillo," p. 173, as at Pau.

Illustrated in the Klassiker der Kunst volume on "Murillo," 1913.

Painted in 1671, and so a work of the artist's mature period.

The stenciled monogram "S. G.," crowned, on the back of the canvas, bears out the pedigree given above.

105—LANDSCAPE AT
VILLE FRANCHE-SUR-MER

Height, 11½ inches; length, 17 inches

As stated in an inscription on the back of the stretcher this landscape depicts a subject in one of the favorite painting grounds of the celebrated French artist. A large olive tree stands in the foreground amid the grass and gray boulders of the shore, an arm of the sea appears in the middle distance, and beyond are blue hills and a sky of pale warm tint so frequently seen in the south of France.

Inscription on back of stretcher: "Vue prise à Villefranche sur mer, par H. Harpignies, janvier, '85."

To be sold by the order of a Trustee.

OAKS with wide-spreading branches and foliage slightly tinged with brown are seen, in the sunlight, on the sloping shores of a pond at the left; part of the foreground lies in deep shadow, and in the blue sky of afternoon are masses of lightly floating clouds.

SIX cows in a broad, treeless and dune-like pasture have simultaneously made discovery of a stranger in their field, and they give him their undivided and interested attention. Five are closely grouped—a single white one and four black and whites—and a black cow comes up at rear of them, and every eye is bent keenly in the spectator's direction.

Height, 21 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches; length, 32 inches

THE curving street of an old French town winds into view from amid houses and outbuildings, and is bordered by high garden walls, old and creamy-gray like the houses. Down the street come a company of armed men, in haste, keeping close to the wall, while in the background infantrymen are fighting about the courts and corners of the houses, some of the men lie dead there, and an exploding shell sets fire to a roof.

ONE of the most characteristic of Monticellis, a rich fantasy of color and light, with the gregarious human note, linking dignified man and bewitching woman with alluring Nature. Within a setting of gorgeous woodland, the arched portal of a temple, toward the left, and before it and spreading largely over the picture many people closely massed and richly garbed. Dogs rub noses before them, near the center of the composition, and at the right horses are tethered to the trees.

IN the foreground a rambling pond or sluggish stream skirting the border of a broad and rich meadow of deep grass near the sea, the meadow vanishing at a level skyline far on the left and in the central distance, and on the right in nearer distance bounded by a low hill clothed in dark green. Standing athwart the picture, facing left, in the shallow water of the foreground stream, is a white cow, her thick coat cream-tinged. She has raised her head from drinking, and turns it sharply to her left, with keen, alert eye. A bell hangs from her neck. A sorrel cow with a white face, standing alongside and beyond, turns her white face and looks at the observer over the white cow's shoulder. Standing and lying down in various attitudes, about the meadow or grazing, are others of the herd, seen in sunshine under a sky billowed with gray and white clouds.

Height, 39 inches; length, 53 inches

BROAD fields almost level, green and golden brown, and extending as far as eye can see, have been reaped and are dotted with the stacked grain. In a winding field road across them, coming from the left along the foreground, a young peasant and his wife and their two children are making their way homeward at the close of a harvest day. He swings a scythe over his shoulder and follows his wife, who is pushing a wheelbarrow loaded with clover grass and giving the smaller child a ride. The other child, a bare-footed girl in blue, walks alongside, dragging a golden sheaf of wheat. A ray from the setting sun which gilds the tops of a few of the stacks just catches the edges of the faces of the grown-ups as the sun is sinking below the horizon.
